Upheaval and confusion have been the norm for Redskins. Upset by renovation noise and dust and the effects of redistricting, students faced a new environment and new friends.

Many old traditions were lost in the shuffle, putting a damper on class unity and school spirit. It has been our task in the past year to revive traditions worthy of revival and to create replacements for those that have lost their meaning. In a year of re-building, we have served as architects.

It is we who lay the ground work for future Redskin endeavors. Our attitudes and accomplishments will color North for years to come, for we stand on the threshold . . .

Senior DECA members discuss the awards won at the Regional Career Development contest. Award winners traveled to Indianapolis for state competition.

Students enjoy their meals at the chili supper sponsored by the music department before the North-New Haven game.

The school wakes up as basketball sectionals roll around. Senior cheerleader Thea Baughman tapes up a good luck sign on a player's locker.

Many Redskins rode bicycles to school for good exercise and as an inexpensive means of transportation.

Speech department head Gary Schultz promotes business in the department's Supply Shoppe. The shop opened in hope of earning funds.

We stand on the threshold . . . of new traditions

Redskins struggle together . . .
They relate together . . .
And relax together . . .
I can't wait to get out of here.
Me neither. Gotta work tonite?
Yeah, five to nine.
What ya doing this weekend?
There's a party
Do your chemistry?
I didn't get number eight.
Did he call?
No, but I didn't stick around.
Nice outfit. New?
How'd you do on your test?
Not so hot.
I'm gonna flunk.
I have a headache.
Got any aspirin?

Redskins are often sighted at McDonald's—our kind of place because of low prices for munchy-killing food. Bruce Erving waits in line.

Sophomores John Morris and Laurie Reitz cruise town for lack of anything better to do.

The spirit of victory is strong in the air as hundreds of Redskin fans crowd the stadium for a football game.

SEPTEMBER

Goodbye summer sun
A heavy-hearted farewell
Turn to responsibility
Buckle down
Adjust

Compete
Start again

OCTOBER

Tan fades.
Leaves wither
Grass pales
Dig up your coat,
your sweater,
your vigor

Attending movies was a favorite pastime for North Side students. Seniors Mike Jones and Dorothy Lipp stop to see a flick.

Feeling bewildered over the amount of work they have to do, sophomores Lisa Dennis, Jennifer Jones, and Mary Wyatt explore the building during the first days of school.

Fullback Thea Baughman and quarterback Elaine Calson, both seniors, run an off-tackle in the Powder Puff game for a touchdown.

Junior Randy Mock slams the ball hoping to score in a hearty game of ping pong.

Many hours were spent searching for perfect Christmas presents. Senior Brad Altevogt reflects on a gift while shopping at the mall.

Senior Mike Martone as Ray Trafford woos his sweetheart, Laura Courtland, played by senior Janine Burke, in "Under the Gaslight."

NOVEMBER

Winter's closing in (Hardly noticed)
School's cracking down
(Hardly cared)
I'm still looking forward
Don't have to look behind.

DECEMBER

Looking for the spirit
I bought and pushed and hurried
and wrapped
and smiled
and partied
and despaired.
I finally found it
one quiet still gray and white afternoon alone.

As the world turns, junior Georgia Thomas and sophomore Theresa Thomas pause to study the colossal globe in the downtown library lobby.

JANUARY
 Celebration
 Recuperation
 Resolution
 Revolution
 Reflection
 Relaxation
 Restoration
 Continuation
 FEBRUARY
 Apathy settles in
 The pattern is repeated
 every short day
 Long cold nights
 I don't even care
 How hopeless it seems

The nation bid farewell to two past Presidents,
 Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson.
 North's flag flies at half-mast honoring them.

Following the student unrest, all Redskins had to produce their school I.D. upon entering the building (or not enter!) Sophomore Mary Carpenter waits for approval.

During a luxurious afternoon in the privately rented Allen County Memorial Coliseum, Jeff Logue zips across the ice in a game of hockey.

Hall passes become a new way of life at North. Adjusting to the tightened security, senior Tom Blackburn checks with a hall monitor.

Junior Roberta Chambers glances at a newspaper headline, President Nixon ended the war in January and all American prisoners were sent home.

Junior Nancy Meyers helps out by tutoring elementary students. Many Skins used their spare time in this way.

The search for a job goes on as senior Patti Kipling fills out an application and waits apprehensively for an interview.

Senior Curt Robbins goes to register for the draft. Although the war ended, 18-year olds are still required to register.

MARCH
 If I can only hold on
 Make it through the month
 Tolerate
 Survive
 The top of the hill looms ahead
 Push on Made it
 APRIL
 Thawing
 Boredom
 Hoplessness
 Apathy
 Dismay
 (All ooze away)
 I'm alive!

Students pour over SAT booklets. Every spring many students take this test which is required for college entrance.

MAY Anticipation
 Excitement
 Tension and despair
 Hope
 An awakening
 Life renews itself
 Exhilaration
 JUNE
 It's here!
 Sigh of relief.
 Sad goodbyes,
 Misery melts into mellowness.
 Until tomorrow.
 The End. A beginning

Self-efficiency and an awareness of the environment make biking an exhilarating experience, felt by seniors Barb Bedwell and Terry Nix.

Found in many a backyard on a sunny day are earnest sunworshippers. Junior Kay Horacek tries to catch a few rays.

Today an event, tomorrow a memory; seniors George Wagner and Linda Kruse attend the traditional Prom.

We stand on the threshold ... of new classes

Redskins learn together . . .
They experiment together . . .
And they create together . . .
Hey, what ya got fifteenth module?
For tomorrow write two pages on something relevant what's relevant mean?
Explain why Eagleton was dropped from the vice-presidential race
Hey, what's the answer to No. 2?
Eyes on your own paper
Boy, I hope I pass this test
Ugh! I just had to run the Tennessee course
They locked the candy machines again ¿Que pasa?
For It!
Can you believe it's all over?

English/ Laning departs, block classes provide individualized study

Literature seminar students Mike Martone, Terry Brown, Jenny Sukow, Dave Johnson, and Patti Hein discuss "Deliverance", a novel by James Dickey, with teacher Mr. James Lewinski.

This was a year of transition in English from laning to elective block programming. The change was made to provide more individualized instruction for students.

Although English is a required subject, students this year had a choice of following a traditional program or electing a block of studies in which the English courses were tailored to the needs of those enrolled in the block. This way, students with similar interests were grouped together.

Other changes this year included the addition of Mrs. Betty Albaugh, the English aide. Her duties consisted of tutoring and secretarial work.

The new English office provided storage area and a department meeting place. Two teachers, Mrs. Delores Moore and Mr. Jesse Moden joined the staff.

Mr. Larry Bott, English teacher for the earth science block, points out sentence structure using the overhead projector.

Junior Linda Fincher posts a greeting card as part of a bulletin board display in Mrs. Kathleen Neuhaus' English classroom.

Distributing books to seniors Marie Borum and Chris Koop, department head Mr. James Lewinski moves into the new English office.

Speaking to her English students, Mrs. Delores Moore stresses a point. She and Mr. Jesse Moden were both new to North this year.

Senior Holly Love selects a book for a report in the library. The media center was used extensively by English classes.

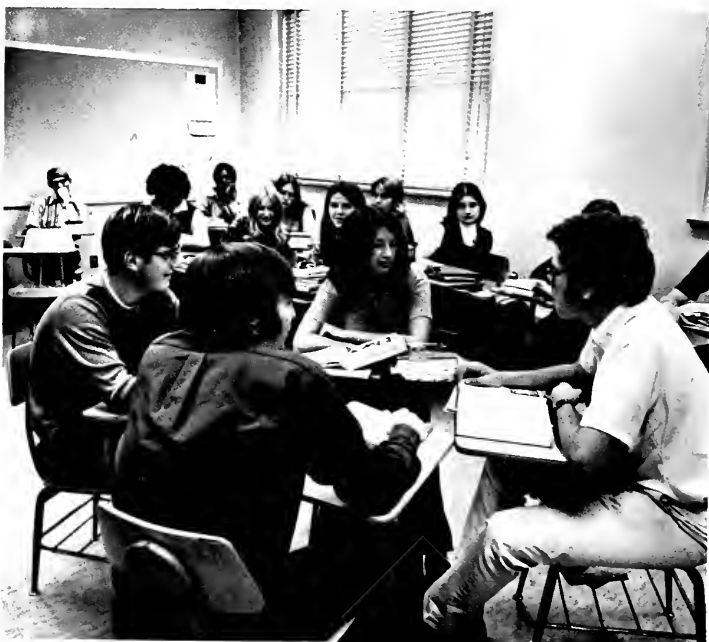

An early project in Mr. Don Evans' senior government class was working on collages. These students take time to admire the numerous topics and originality displayed in the collages.

Sophomore Tom Hartman uses the slide projector as Mr. Charles Feller lectures to the class on the problems in Indo-China.

Seniors Ann Jones, Dan Zweig, George Wagner, and Randy Slesman discuss election issues in government class. Other students listened and formed their opinions.

Social Studies/ Mock elections conclude study of national campaign

Because it was an election year, social studies classes often centered around the national election and voting. Early in the year, a mock election concluded a five-session course on the national election. New faces in the social studies department were teachers Mr. Arthur Eldridge, from Fairfield Junior High School; Mr. Don Evans, from South Side High School; Mr. Dean Slavens, from Skokie, Illinois; and Mr. Joseph DiPietro. Mr. DiPietro replaced Mr. Duane Brown, who moved from the social studies hall to the deans' office. Mr. Cleon Fleck, department head, celebrated his sixteenth year at North and his thirty-sixth in teaching. Mr. Fleck feels the purpose of his department is to make students better aware of what goes on around them.

Seniors Penny Robinson and Tim Cole discuss newspaper articles on World War II in Mr. Cleon Fleck's senior government class.

Mr. Myron Henderson lectures to his class on the upcoming national election. Much activity was centered around the election.

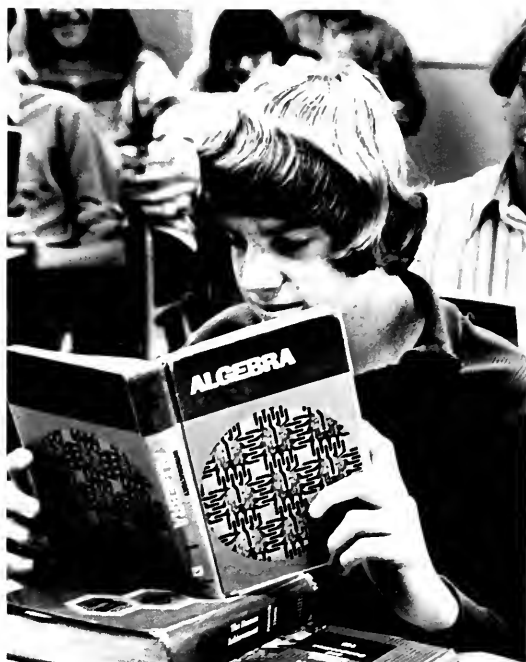

Mr. Arthur Eldridge, social studies teacher, lectures to his class on current issues. This was Mr. Eldridge's initial year at North Side.

Mr. John Stauffer, geometry teacher, uses an overhead projector in explaining a confusing problem to his students.

Mr. Donald Hunter, fundamentals of algebra teacher, gives extra help with a difficult problem to sophomore Mary Carpenter.

Scott Spridgeon, sophomore, puzzles over his introductory algebra. He is looking carefully over problems for an upcoming test.

Demonstrating the relationship between lines and points is Mr. Robert Lovell. He hopes to enable his students to better understand the basics of geometry.

Mathematics/ Department gains equipment; offers advanced course on independent basis

The class looks on as Amelia Brand, junior, finds an interesting way to view an otherwise boring protractor.

The math department offered the opportunity of taking five years of math. Seniors could take trigonometry and advanced math. The advanced math course was taught every Tuesday morning at 7:15. Mr. Robert Lovell taught the advanced math students on an independent study basis with pass/fail grading. Trig students learned the mathematical language and trig functions. The second semester these students studied analytic geometry. Mr. Charles Clark headed the department, which also offered fundamentals of algebra, geometry, and advanced algebra. Other math teachers Mr. Donald Hunter, Mr. Dale Goon, Mr. John Stauffer, and Mr. By Hey made use of new equipment which included several adding machines and a small computer.

Mr. Robert Lovell explains the use of the calculator, one of the new math aids, to sophomores Steve Lauer and Tim Miller.

Science/ Courses de-emphasize brain-squeezing, stress individual research projects

Senior Jim Wehrenberg constructs a sound-proof box as a part of his advanced science project. His experiment will note the effects of silence upon guinea pigs to be housed in it.

"Science is a way of life," according to Mr. Ronald Dvorak, science department head. Getting away from the stereotype of brain-squeezing science courses was a concern of Mr. Dvorak. He hoped students derived from science not only facts, but also a realization of the relation of technology to living. Some courses encouraged individual research projects, and most required laboratory work. Students in the man-made world course studied traffic patterns around the city, planning to offer the city traffic department solutions to the problem of Fort Wayne's vehicle-clogged streets. All classes participated in field trips to the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry.

The department was more than just pretty, remolded rooms. New modern equipment added efficiency and was appreciated by students and teachers alike. Hopefully, though, the students took with them not just knowledge of science. As Mr. Mark Tipple expressed it, "Awareness is what it's all about."

The science department was granted new technically-advanced equipment this year. Experimenting with the instruments are seniors Gene Chaffin, Dan Zweig, and Denny Maxwell.

Senior Tony Terrell donates classtime to move boxes. Some science classes were chaotic the first few days due to renovation.

Junior Kurt Ahlersmeyer demonstrates the use of a sound detecting device, viewing the pattern that his voice creates.

A violent chemical reaction results in senior chemistry student Dale Warner's laboratory work and is recorded by junior Jeannie Young.

Foreign Language/ Students develop fluent speech through use of recorded tape

"I like to see students progress in their ability to comprehend, speak, read, and write a foreign language fluently," said Mr. Paul Lemke, foreign language department head. "We want them to learn everything about the language that they can, from speaking it well to learning its culture and history." New equipment, including devices which teach the student through use of recorded tapes, helped students to accomplish this.

German teacher Mr. Leslie Roberts was new to the department and taught first and second year German at both North and South Side. French students were primarily interested in learning the language, studying the verbs, and getting an idea of the French customs. Fourth year students read modern novels in French. Mr. Beckley's third and fourth year students read Caesar and Cicero.

Foreign language department head Mr. Paul Lemke watches his second year Spanish class recite from their Spanish textbook. Mr. Lemke teaches first, second, and third year Spanish.

Mrs. Ramona Ransburg's second year French class listens to the sound tapes of pronunciation through the earphones. This equipment was revamped for the department.

Lecturing to his class is Mr. Leslie Roberts, new German teacher. Mr. Roberts is doing double duty between North and South Side.

Senior Janine Burke helps sophomore French student Jim Carpenter with some problems in French. Janine is part of the tutoring corps. She and many others help out students with problems.

Senior Pam Baker displays the flag of Mexico. Pam visited Mexico this summer and brought back many memories.

Sophomore phys ed girls spent the months of November and December learning the fundamentals of and competing in field hockey.

Physical Education/ Students learn to compete while strengthening bodies

A girls' phys ed class is appropriately dressed for a cold game of field hockey. Miss Anne Donnelly, gym instructor, is pointing out the boundaries for the game.

The physical education department helps the student strengthen his body while teaching him to work and compete with other class members. Miss Donnelly, department head, used some of the audio visual equipment in an experiment with her girls' physical education classes this year. The students engage in such activities as, track, tennis, basketball, gymnastics, soccer, archery, and co-ed square dancing. Also, there were swimming and life saving. The physical education department has an advanced class which gives credit to juniors and seniors who participated as student helpers for the sophomore classes. The helpers assist the department by lessening the work. Mr. Joseph Di-Pietro and Mr. By Hey are the boys' physical education instructors.

One of the featured events of the sophomore year is running the Tennessee course in phys ed. These boys have completed it, but have the longer Coliseum course to run.

Easels were set up in the hallway due to crowding in a temporary art classroom. Nan LaPointe, Sherry Mendez, and Mark Taylor work on compositions based on an organic form.

Senior Kim Schinbeckler experiments in the new graphics area of Mr. Donald McClead's art room.

Art/ Courses introduce students to varying forms of art

The art department attempts to educate a student to all styles of art. The student is encouraged to acquire an understanding and tolerance of different art forms. Information about art and art happenings is gained, and an awareness of environment and an appreciation of others' work is created.

An introduction to all types of art media is provided. The basic course includes drawing, painting, and design. Other classes offer such varied areas of interest as stitchery, jewelry, ceramics, life drawing, enameling, and wood sculpture. One of the renovated classrooms include a graphic section for work on lithography printing, etching, and silk-screening. There is also a special exhaust hood to remove harmful fumes from the area. Another new feature is a darkroom, which will be ready for use next year.

Both the art rooms are designed so that pictures can be displayed along the entire wall.

Juniors Linda Behrn, Peggy Moore, Cheryl Mosher, and JoAnne Bracht display pillows and wall hangings in Miss Margorie Bell's art class. Stitchery and macrame were also explored.

Journalism/ Gathering information accurately is the goal of journalism students

Learning how to gather information, compile it accurately and promptly, and edit it for use is the goal of those in the journalism department. Students study the mass media to learn how they can be served by the media. A trip through Fort Wayne Newspapers, Inc. is part of this study. They also get practice in language arts through writing assignments and in social studies through daily news quizzes. Work with videotape and tape recorders provided opportunities for membership on the school publications. About two thirds of these students join the newspaper or yearbook staff, while the rest work on independent projects. These projects might include typing, filing, or a special assignment given by Miss Norma Thiele, publications advisor. The Northerner staff writes and lays out the weekly newspaper, The Northerner. The Legend staff meets deadlines throughout the year.

Commenting on a student's question, journalism teacher and advisor Miss Norma Thiele pauses while folding a Northerner.

Placing a business call for the Northerner, junior Larry Lahr works to sell advertising space. In addition to his newspaper duties, Larry helped on the sports section of the Legend.

Villianess Paula Koenig, junior, tears at the hair of her frightened maid portrayed by Patti Martin, junior.

Senior Jenny Sukow, as Pearl, and senior Bonnie Neuhaus and sophomore Steve Smith as society folk greet Ray, Mike Martone, senior.

Dramatics/ Mr. Stark stresses enjoyment of life; department performs five productions

Stagecraft involves the use of props and lighting. Under Mr. Douglas Stark's direction, juniors Blade Hauth, and Debbie Sexton, and senior Sue Warrick adjust the light buttons.

Juniors Marie Vonderhaar and Rona Compton play the "mirror game" in beginning drama to develop skill in concentration.

Advanced dramatic students, seniors Bonnie Neuhaus and B.J. Dorsett, receive comments from Mr. Douglas Stark on their interpretation of a scene from "Butterflies Are Free."

Freedom was a cherished idea in dramatics. Mr. Douglas Stark, dramatics department head, stressed the importance of being unafraid to feel and take responsibility. He hoped everyone in his classes, from stagecraft to advanced drama, learned to enjoy himself and realize that life is not all that bad and a person can always find a laugh.

Dramatics is a part of life—everyone acts and reacts. In learning the intricate skills of drama, one can communicate with more understanding and begin to control his voice. The field of dramatic styles ranges from Greek chanting to melodrama.

Five very different productions were put on. "Under the Gaslight" started the season, followed by a children's show, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which was played to the orphanage children and State School residents. Other productions were "Flowers for Algernon," "Camelot," and a variety show.

Mr. Stark hopes to banish the stereotype of high school drama, that of one stiffly acted production every year. Ideally, North Side's dramatics department will be a training ground for interested students and will give productions on a level with professionals.

Mr. John Hill, vocal director, leads A'Cappella in a rhythmic tune. A'Cappella consisted of all juniors and seniors.

Marching band members prepare for the football home opener and the NISBOVA band contest. The members marched every morning first period and every Wednesday evening.

Orchestra members, under the direction of Mr. Barry Ashton, are working towards perfection for an upcoming concert.

After a long practice, band members and Arrowettes return from the practice field. Practice paid off for the band as they got a first division rating and second place in sweepstakes.

Music/ Redskins place 2nd in NISBOVA; vocal groups provide entertainment

"We can win," said Mr. Barry Ashton as he talked about North Side's chances of winning NISBOVA. "It is just like a high school football game. You practice and practice and hope that you can do your best without messing up."

Mr. Neal Graham assisted Mr. Ashton in directing the band. The marching Redskins received a first division rating and second in state.

Orchestra consisted of many of the band members, along with stringed instrument players. They performed at concerts throughout the year.

Training choir, taught by Mr. Phillip Stubblefield, prepared sophomores for further singing experiences. Troubadours and A'Cappella contained all juniors and seniors and was directed by Mr. John Hill. The vocal groups practiced daily for concerts and special performances on the "Ann Colone Show" and at the shopping malls.

Senior Troubadour Cheryl Wilson sings out one of the many songs performed by Troubs. This one is entitled "The Song."

Seniors Julie Tinsely and Julie Schroeder quickly mend Arrowette uniforms before a big game. Arrowettes worked with the band.

Speech and Debate/

Debaters argue financing of education;
speakers use videotape to detect mistakes

Beginning speech students Pam Bennett and Mike Mason gain basic experience by leading a class discussion.

An advanced senior speech student, Virginia Sukow, demonstrates her talent in poetry. These students chose from ten categories.

Speech instructor Mr. Gary Schultz explains debate procedures to a group of advanced students who debated the same topic all year long. They competed in over 300 meets.

Beginning speech is a course in which the student learns to communicate effectively and develop his own style of speaking. The speaking process is stripped of mannerisms and reinforced with logic. The student learns to listen carefully, organize his thinking, and become more sensitive to the ideas and feelings of others.

All students enrolled in advanced speech are members of the speech or debate team. These students compete with students from over three hundred high schools. The student has ten speech categories to choose from: radio, discussion, poetry, original oratory, oratorical declamation, dramatic interpretation, humorous interpretation, impromptu, and boys' and girls' extemporaneous. The debating team, as well as all debating teams in the nation, are debating exclusively on the topic of school finance.

While delivering a constructive speech on federal financing of education, junior Dave Lewark attacks the affirmative contentions.

Home Economics/

Department expands program to spur student interest

Expanded programs in human development, home management, and housing added interest to the home economics department.

Sophomore home ec students began with foods and clothing. Selection, care, and construction of clothes was studied, along with the selection of and preparation of food. Advanced classes covered the actual making of clothes and planning and preparing meals.

Juniors and seniors spent the first semester of human development discussing marriage and family living. The second semester was concerned with child development. A highlight of the year was a nursery school set up and run by the girls. The goal of advanced students was understanding yourself and getting along with other people. Other topics covered were the legal aspects and planning of a wedding, problems of senior citizens, divorce, and death.

Home economics teacher, Miss Martha Moore, conducts a discussion with her human development group. The girls enjoyed the use of new stoves, sinks and cupboards.

Home ec students perform a skit in their human development class. They are studying child discipline.

Miss Martha Moore demonstrates the proper use of a sewing machine. The students learned carefulness in sewing.

Seniors Steve Stahlhut and Leroy Pennington are preparing to work with the combustibile engine. Power mechanics was an industrial arts course offered to students.

Industrial Arts/ Teachers broaden students' knowledge and prepare them for future jobs

Mr. Robert Edwards, industrial arts department head, demonstrated the proper way to use the plane in his beginning woods class. Students were taught the use of various tools.

"The idea is not to train students to go out and take over a job, but to broaden their knowledge on what is done in the specific fields." This is how Mr. Robert Edwards, department head, viewed the purpose of the industrial arts classes. "We want to acquaint the students with the different courses." All classes in the industrial arts corridor were open to all students. Approximately 550 students were enrolled in classes, and only six were girls. Five teachers handled all the classes. Mr. Richard Wert taught power mechanics and electricity courses, Mr. Tom Bullock taught drawing and woods. Mr. Tom Schaefer taught metals and drawing. Mr. John Bill taught metals and drawing, and Mr. Edwards taught woods. In each class students were given a chance to work on a project of their choice, according to their ability.

Learning to type quickly and accurately on electric typewriters can be quite a task. These typing students are working diligently to accomplish this.

Working the knobs on a shorthand dictation machine is Mrs. Irma Johnson. Mrs. Johnson teaches dictation skills.

Business/ Department receives new equipment; students take field trips, observe office routine.

The business department received 100 new typewriters, new chairs for all students in typing, and new equipment for the clerical practices classes.

Courses connected with the business department are shorthand, clerical practice, bookkeeping, distributive education, business law, accounting, and consumer education. The classes acquaint students with office machines and procedures. The main goal worked for in typing and shorthand is good speed and accuracy.

In advanced shorthand class, students participated in a club called Future Secretaries of America. They had speakers and took field trips to various companies so that the students were able to observe actual office routine.

Business helps a student to have some type of skill to work with after graduation.

Bev Brantley and Mary Patten push for speed, as they take dictation from tapes in advanced shorthand class.

D.E., C.O.E./ D.E. trains students for merchandising; C.O.E. prepares 'Skins for office work

Seniors Patrice Van Curen and Jody Barile learn to run rotary calculators. C.O.E. students learn to operate various business machines.

There are two vocational programs in which students are trained in classroom study and on-the-job experience. One is Distributive Education (D.E.) in which a student is prepared for a career in the field of merchandising of goods and services. Another program is Cooperative Office Education (C.O.E.) for a student interested in some type of office work.

Both D.E. and C.O.E. offer one credit for classroom activities and one credit for on-the-job training. A student is paid at least minimum wage for the hours he works. He also must work a required amount of hours per week.

The coordinators of the programs find out the student's choice of jobs and arrange interviews with different employers.

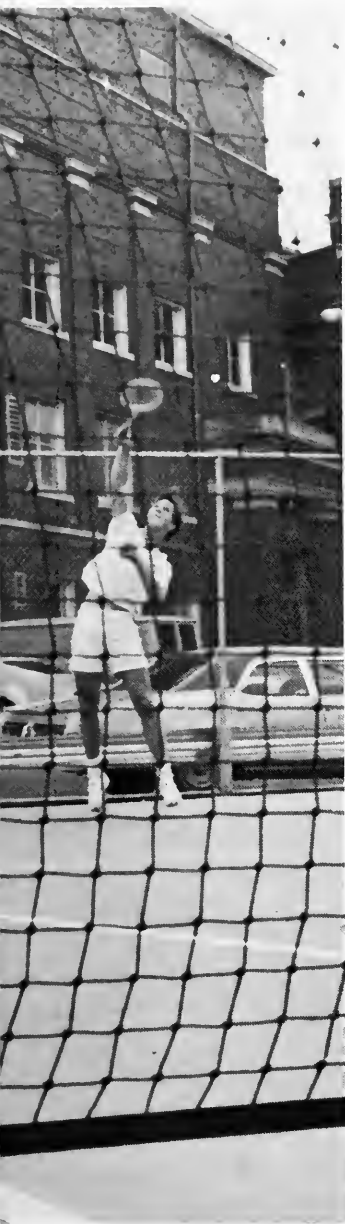

One of the special projects of D.E. was spray painting signs. These signs were used as Spirit Week posters.

The Distributive Education Club sold donuts and milk in the mornings as one of their money making projects to pay for expenses connected with the club.

We stand on the threshold . . . of greater challenges

Redskins compete together . . .
They win together . . .
And they cry together . . .
Our first football winning season since 1965
What do ya know!
Fifteen sprints now
A new track coach, hmmm
Maybe I'll go out
Run, run, run, run
Those jocks really think they're special
You're not kidding!
Competition
Anxiety
"We won, we won!"
Accomplishment
I wonder how much longer
our luck will hold out
That's not luck, that's talent
Just wait till next year

Girls' Cheerblock / Members work to arouse spirit; new dress regulation enacted

And sophomore, junior, or senior was eligible to be a girls' cheerblock member. The cheerblock's members consisted of girls who were enthusiastic, interested, and involved in the school activities.

The cheerblock's purpose was to arouse school spirit during the basketball season. The members, including the varsity and reserve cheerleaders worked out different chants and cheers to be used at the games.

The girls were required to attend all of North Side's city and tournament games in uniform. The uniforms were quite different from previous years. The girls were allowed to wear dark slacks instead of the usual skirts. New shirts were also purchased. The change was made to encourage membership.

Miss Anne Donnelly, physical education department head, sponsored the club, which met every Friday morning during the basketball season. Officers were seniors Nancy Burnham, president; Becky Davis, vice-president; and Linda Pickering, secretary—treasurer.

Senior girls' cheerblock members shout and clap to one of the many chants. Seniors were honored in cheerblock by being the only ones to sit in the front row.

The girls' cheerblock shows enthusiasm as they cheer the varsity on to a hopeful victory. The cheerblock attended all games.

Ripplettes/ Swimmers choreograph exercise routines and learn to synchronize their motions

"A lot of hard work goes into the water show," said Mrs. Zola Noble, co-sponsor of the Ripplettes. One show of the traditional synchronized swimming performances was given for the public. The members chose a musical and each girl choreographed a number. All funds for the club were made through the show.

Nineteen girls met the requirements and became Ripplettes. Prospective members entered a workshop consisting of five practices, and then tried out on stunts they learned during the workshop. New members, or "spikes," went through a three week initiation set by active members. Practices were every Monday and Wednesday from 3:45 until 4:45.

Members elected juniors Anne Bobay, president; Patty Martin, secretary-treasurer; and senior Lea Powers, water show chairman. Miss Rosalee Doust co-sponsored with Mrs. Noble.

Experienced Ripplettes members Anne Bobay and Lea Powers give instructions to new members on certain acrobatic feats in the water. Ripplettes go through many rigorous exercises, to get in shape. Three new Ripplettes do their breathing exercises under water.

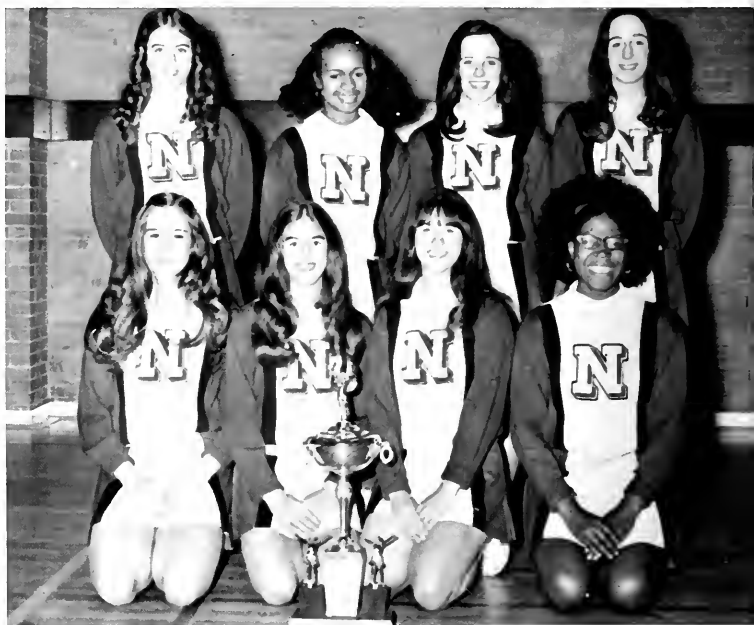

Cheerleaders / Varsity wins twelve USCA awards; Reserves learn cheers, mounts

The varsity cheerleaders ranked third in the national contest and first in the regional contest, where eight ribbons were awarded the squad. Bernice Nelson and Janine Burke placed individually.

The reserve and varsity cheerleaders, sponsored by Miss Anne Donnelly, met every morning first period for practice. Both squads worked with the girls' cheerblock on Friday mornings.

Tryouts for varsity cheerleaders were last spring. The girls had an interview with judges. Next they had to try out in front of the entire student body. Another tryout was required in front of the judges alone. The girls were then selected for cheerleaders.

Twenty-four sophomores and junior girls made up the reserve squad, performed at pep sessions, and were required to be at all varsity games. The girls were divided into four squads which took turns cheering quarters at reserve games.

The varsity squad displays one of their many big mounts learned at cheerleading camp. The squad used this mount in the cheer, "Beat."

Reserve cheerleaders Paula Pease, Patti Burke, and Kim Eddy cheer the reserve team/Skins team on to a hopeful victory.

The varsity cheerleaders take advantage of a time out to show their enthusiasm. The squad strived to maintain fan support.

Varsity Football/

Varsity gridgers win four in a row for 5-3 record season; Work to complete first winning since 1965

Senior quarterback Byron Choka fakes a handoff to senior Dan Johnson, as junior Gregg Cummings prepares to take the ball in the Bishop Dwenger game.

The gridskins enjoyed their first winning season ever under head coach Duane Brown. The 'Skins started the season by dropping the first two contests in a total margin of three points. They were edged by Bishop Dwenger, 27-25, and lost to Northrop, 14-13. Northrop and Dwenger went on to finish one-two in the North Division of the city race. North then downed Wayne in the first overtime game of the year, 14-7. The Skins lost to Goshen before going on to win the final four games to finish with a 5-3 overall record and a 5-2 city series record.

In the North Division the 'Skins finished with a 2-2 record. Junior workhorse Bob Tudor led the ground attack for the 'Skins, while senior quarterback Byron Choka led the aerial attack throughout the season. Coach Brown felt it was "my best season ever," and was "proud of the way the boys came back from a 1-3 record to finish with a 5-3 record."

Mr. Tom Bullock replaced Mr. Donald Hunter as reserve football head coach. Mr. Hunter was made varsity line coach. Mr. Bullock commented that the team overall was very good, considering size. He hopes that his future teams have more players. The team consisted of thirteen sophomores and seven juniors. Two of the squad's outstanding players were Kevin Kruse and Welton Dufor, according to Coach Bullock. Welton lead the team in scoring.

Both teams turn to watch a high flying Redskin pass down field. The Redskins were defeated in this game against New Haven, 12-6.

Tennis/ Netters have successful 8-3 season, finish second behind city champs

Junior captain Rick Seaman sets for a smash against his counterpart in one of his matches during sectionals. Rick won sectionals and ended third at the regional level.

North's netters totaled a 6-2 city record and a 8-3 overall mark, coming in second behind co-city champs, Concordia and South Side.

The Redskin netters shut out four of their victims: Bishop Dwenger, Elmhurst, Homestead, and Bishop Luers by identical scores of 7-0. The netters dropped only 3 matches this season. The losses came at the hands of Northrop, Bluffton, and South. The team ended the year winning their match against Concordia. Coach Myron Henderson said, "It was one of the best victories we have had, because Concordia has a highly respected team." Concordia's only defeat was to the 'Skins.

Leading the team individually was junior captain Rick Seaman who captured the sectional singles title and ended up third in the regional tournament. Rick ended the year with a total of 20 wins and 5 losses.

Other individual tallies included senior Glen Nevogt with a 15-7 record in both doubles and singles, while sophomore Dave Beard registered an 11-3 record and senior Steve Mays ended with a 15-5 season total.

Junior Jeff Logue sits down after a difficult workout with his teammates before an upcoming match. Jeff played doubles throughout the season.

Cross Country/ Team gains valuable experience, places 14th in sectional meet

At the start of a big one, North's harriers try to set off on the right foot in the city meet at Concordia Senior College. The 'Skins worked hard and looked forward to the sectionals.

North's hill-and-dalers finished up a sub-par season with a "very successful" sectional meet according to Coach Keith Fisher. The varsity harriers finished the regular season with a 2-13 record, while the reserves finished with a 12-3 record. Coach Fisher, however, feels the squad did "very well" in the sectionals, placing fourteenth in a field of twenty one. Mr. Fisher felt the boys improved their times "very well" and he was "very happy" with the results.

The boys put a lot of work into the season and never let up or gave up. Coach Fisher said the squad was a young one and should benefit from it and prepare a good future for next year. The 'Skins, while running "well" in the sectionals, had no individual qualifying for the regional championship meet. Sophomore Paul Shaw and co-captains Bill Piercy and Brad Altevogt led the pack in the sectional meet, Shaw with his best time of the season.

Senior Brad Altevogt seems to be all alone as he paces himself in a city meet. Brad worked hard and enjoyed a fine year.

Redskins win second city title in a row;
two serious injuries call for more drive

For the second year in a row Redskins were city champs, completing the season with a perfect 8-0 city record and 16-4 overall. By Hey won his third city title when North beat Dwenger, 77-50. The win was the Skins' twenty-eighth city victory in the past four years with only five defeats.

Two injuries later in the season seemed only to bring more drive to the Redskin cause. The annual civil war between North and South Side saw leading Redskin scorer Tom Scheele break his ankle. Tom was out for the remainder of the season. A few weeks later junior James Lindsay, third highest scorer, broke his finger and sprained his ankle at the Columbia City match. James made it back just in time for the tourney. Coach Hey's bench proved themselves strong as the team prepared for sectional action.

Dribbling the ball down court ready to set up the play against visiting New Haven is senior Tom Crosley. North won 77-56.

In perfect form and all alone is senior Dave Barnett as he executes his deadly jump shot against the opponent.

Tourney / North skins Archers, Cadets, Panthers for the fifth straight sectional title

For the first time in the Fort Wayne sectional the Redskins brought home the fifth straight sectional title in a row. The tourney path wasn't easy as the city champs began by playing South Side in the second game of a triple-header in Sectional II. Redskins took an early lead, paced by senior Dave Barnett making 13 of 14 shots. The Archers were left behind by a score of 80-72.

North's next foe was the powerful Concordia Cadets. A close first half left the score tied at 28. The Skins came alive the third quarter and allowed Concordia to score only five points. At the final buzzer the score was 67-46.

The hard-fought championship game saw the lead switch hands several times. Fans went wild as North came out on top 82-71.

The Redskins were defeated in the first game of the Regional by the Westview Warriors, with a score of 82-71.

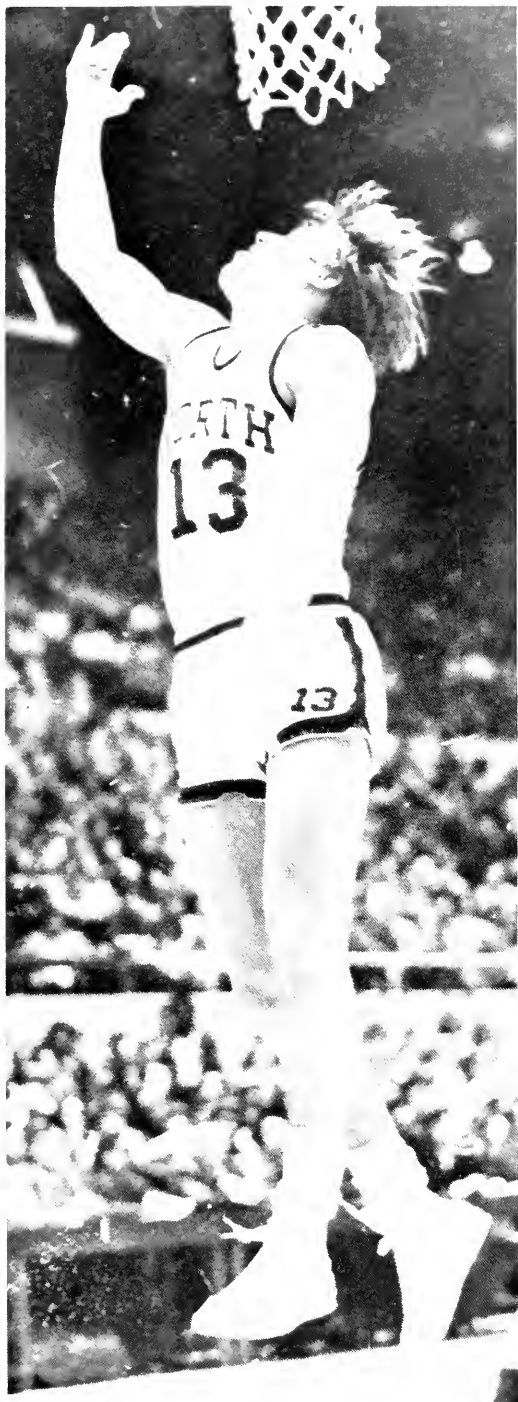

Varsity cheerleaders Bernice Nelson, Mary Nold, and Thea Baughman watch anxiously as the Skins prepare to shoot a free throw.

Redskin players surround the sectional championship trophy after emerging victorious over Snider by a score of 82-71.

Coach By Hey springs from the bench to give encouragement and instruction to the Redskin netmen.

Senior guard Dave Barnett drives for a lay-up. Barnett had 29 against South before fouling out early in the fourth quarter.

North has many fans throughout the season, but at tourney time fans and enthusiasm reach their peak.

Junior Rick Seaman gets two for the Skins against South Side. Rick is a starting guard.

The reserve and sophomore basketball squads both finished successful season with 16-3 and 9-4 records respectively. The reserve squad, under coaches John Stauffer and Arthur Eldridge, played a very tough schedule and lost only to Northrop, Muncie North, and Elmhurst.

The sophomore team, also coached by Mr. Stauffer and Mr. Eldridge, played an equally tough schedule and many players enjoyed dual roles, playing for both the sophomore and reserve squads. Sophomore Al McGee saw action on all three levels, being promoted to the varsity late in the season. The only other reserve to see varsity action was junior Ron Moore, who went to the top when James Lindsay was injured. Mr. Stauffer, Mr. Eldridge, and Mr. Hey were all "very pleased" with the reserve squads accomplishments.

Varsity Wrestling / Grapplers win at Goshen Invitational, Gary Bullock travels to state finals

Varsity grapplers finished the season with an 8-4 overall record and in a second-place tie for the city championship. Other accomplishments by the matmen included first place in the invitational meet at Goshen and a second place finish in the New Haven invitational, as well as sending four wrestlers to the regionals and one to state. Mr. Don Hunter coached the team, assisted by Mr. Tom Bullock. The wrestlers combined for 28 pins during the regular season and were led in this department by Ralph Shaffer, who tallied 10 pins. Gary Bullock lead the team in victories with 16, followed by Shaffer with 14. Mr. Hunter said that he was very pleased with the team's progress throughout the season, and much hard work was put into preparing for the sectionals. Mr. Hunter described the season as "very successful and gratifying."

Golf/ Nice weather brings early practice; Four returning lettermen lead squad

Coach John Stauffer used a squad of eight varsity golfers throughout the season very effectively to ensure a successful season. Stauffer had just four returning lettermen to work with in seniors Pat Morris, Nick Stamanis, Denny Maxwell, and Jack Weisz. Four other golfers, including one senior, two juniors, and one sophomore made up the bulk of the varsity competitors.

The squad had only to uphold a 6-10 mark recorded by last year's squad, and Coach Stauffer predicted before the start of the season that "with the returning lettermen and the squad we've put together, we'll certainly improve on that record." The golfers opened the season with a three-way meet with South Side and Concordia in early April, but the practice sessions started as early as the first week in March due to the seasonable weather.

Coach John Stauffer talks to returning lettermen seniors Pat Morris, Denny Maxwell, Nick Stamanis, and Jack Weisz in a preseason meeting. These four paced the squad this year.

Senior Denny Maxwell, the number three golfer on last year's squad, starts his season early with practice rounds of golf.

About to serve a hot smash is junior Rosie Regedenz. This was the first year for girls' varsity tennis.

Girls' Tennis/ Miss Donnelly coaches 15 girls; Squad progresses very well

The first year of girls' athletics continued into the spring with girls' tennis. Fifteen girls, under the direction of Miss Anne Donnelly, participated.

The female netters started play on April 25 against cross-town rival South Side, and ended in late May. The matches were played on Monday and Wednesdays against all the city schools.

Miss Donnelly ranked the girls in three sets of singles and four sets of doubles. Miss Donnelly said, "the response to the team has been very good, and overall the girls progressed very well."

Volleyball/ Girls' athletics get good beginning; Volleyettes finish with 10-4 record

Varsity sports for the girls became a reality for the first time ever when the Redskin girls, dubbed the Volleyettes, opened their first volleyball season. The girls, coached by Miss Anne Donnelly, played both city and out of city teams. Although the girls played out a short schedule, much time and effort was put into the sport.

They finished with a 10-4 record, and a third place standing in city competition. They worked hard in preparing for the sectional competition at Belmont High School. Round one saw the Volleyettes do well in downing the Bluffton squad in two straight matches. The second round, however, saw the girls falter and fall to the Heritage entry. Losing the opening game, the Skins came back to win the second, but could not hold out for the final deciding game. All in all the girls had a "very successful first year," and hope to be even better next year.

Cheering their team on to victory, the Volleyettes show the spirit and determination of the entire Volleyball squad.

A severely handicapped reserve wrestling team finished with a record of three wins and nine losses. The reserves were minus wrestlers in four weight classes, which gave 24 points to the opponent before the meet ever began.

Coach Donald Hunter felt "all the boys did an outstanding job; especially in overcoming the team deficiency."

All the wrestlers are looking forward to wrestling next year and Coach Hunter feels they will fit right in.

Three grapplers lost only one match apiece during the season. They are Dave Grant, Bob VanBuskirk, and Matt Kocks.

Reserve Wrestling/ Handicapped reserves gain experience, look forward to next year

In perfect form is junior Taft Murdock as he is controlling his opponent from Snider during a reserve match. Taft had a winning season.

Baseball/ New coach optimistic about season; young team strives for victories

The baseball team made a change of hands this season. Last year's coach, Mr. Timothy Russell, took the head basketball coaching position at Hammond Gavit. Mr. Joseph DiPietro took over his position.

Mr. DiPietro said "I am optimistic about the season and my eight returning lettermen." The 20 member squad compiled a 22 game season plus tournament play. Mr. DiPietro also said the team will be playing for individual game victories, but they will be looking especially forward to a sectional victory.

Mr. DiPietro enjoys baseball and said it has been a big part of his life. He plans to rotate three players each game to find his "blue chip players." He would also like to improve last year's 7-9 season.

Mr. Larry Bott assisted the team throughout the season.

Forced inside by bad spring weather, the Redmen were forced to practice in the boys' gym, as demonstrated by junior Bob Bastress.

Senior Byron Choka gets set in the crouch position, ready to take a throw from one of his teammates. This is Byron's third varsity year in baseball.

Bunting is an important part of the game. Senior Tom Crosley shows the proper way to bunt in a practice session.

Second year man junior Bob Tudor is about to return a throw, trains another skin diamond man during an early spring practice season.

Jeff Henschen tosses a few warmup throws to get loosened up before practice starts. This is a major asset to every Redskin diamond man.

Olinske, Kerry Hall, Jeff Henschen, Kevin Konger, Jon Stine, Bob Tudor, Keith Heingartner, Jim Firks, Dave Beard, Steve Shultz, Jim Keller, Mr. Larn Bott, Mr. Joseph DiPietro.

George Wagner shoots over the defense in an early-morning clash. Intramurals games occupied the courts every Tuesday and Thursday.

Driving hard for a layup is senior Dan Thomas as senior Neal Inscow attempts to pull back and avoid fouling.

Intramurals/ Girls join in volleyball, gymnastics; Boys show talent, enjoy competition

The pool was used extensively during intramurals. These girls rest at the edge after a strenuous work out.

Approximately fifty students participated in intramurals at some time during the year. In the fall volleyball was offered as a girls' intramural game, while swimming and basketball occupied the boys' time. During the winter months, girls intramurals activities included swimming and gymnastics, and in the spring the tennis courts were activated. Girls intramurals was supervised by Miss Anne Donnelly, who also served as coach for all girls' varsity sports. Mr. Joseph DiPietro headed the boys' intramural activity on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. Mr. DiPietro, assistant football and head baseball coach, was happy with the number of boys who participated in the games, and said a lot of the boys "showed some real talent" as well as enjoying the competition.

Track/ Mr. Slavens takes coaching position; Early victory creates team incentive

Under the direction of first year head coach, Dean Slavens, North's track men fielded a team of over forty athletes, with thirteen lettermen leading the way. Of the lettermen, six were seniors and seven were juniors. Coach Slavens came from Niles, Chicago where he was also mentor for the track squad. Slavens was "impressed with the turnout for this season," when 62 boys came out for the first practice, compared to the 19 of last year.

One highlight of the season was the 68-50 victory over Culver Military early in the season at an indoor track meet. This victory gave the "Skins the initiative and desire to have a successful season. Slavens felt the team, although young, had the "dedication to have a successful season." He also felt that it was his responsibility as a coach to "produce young men capable of becoming young stars on a state championship team."

Coming down the stretch the tracksters complete their warmup laps. Everyone on the track squad participated in running laps to keep in shape throughout the season.

Head Coach Dean Slavens takes time to lecture to his squad at a practice session. The 60 boys that turned out for this year's tryouts more than tripled last year's squad.

Senior Mark Fisher runs a few practice laps to get in shape for a meet. Mark was a member of the shuttle relay team.

Junior Ralph Shaffer prepares to toss the shot-put in an early contest. Ralph was a letterman in track and wrestling.

Awards/ Many honors go to seniors for outstanding efforts

Janine Burke and Dave Johnson, seniors, discuss a scholarship application. Janine and Dave were selected by members of National Honor Society to compete for the scholarship.

Many North Side seniors had honors bestowed upon them. The entire senior class voted for one boy and one girl who they thought deserved the DAR citizenship award. The names with the most votes were then submitted for teacher votes. Dave Johnson and Janine Burke were selected to compete for a National Honor Society scholarship. Each had to submit a short essay.

Student Council/ Student parking lot finally obtained; representatives work on committees

Student Council accomplished a project put into operation in the 1970-1971 school year by securing a student parking lot. The project was carried on throughout last year, until this year's council, headed by Jim Wehrenberg, finally got it through. The council was advised by Mr. James Lewinski. Officers were president Jim Wehrenberg; vice president Virginia Sukow; secretary Aspasia Pappas; and treasurer Dan Ritchie.

The council was divided into three main committees. The Ways and Means Committee, led by Dan Ritchie, handled all financial affairs. Mike Martone, senior, was the Service Club Committee Chairman. They handled service projects throughout the year. The Activities Committee, headed by senior Ann Moore, was in charge of all the activities, including Spirit Week.

Because they felt it was not achieving its goals, council members disbanded at mid-year.

Mr. Gary Schultz headed the National Forensic League (NFL) for speech and debaters. NFL members attended tournaments throughout Indiana from October to April. Their season was concluded with a state meet.

Nationally the organization had 363,000 students across the country. Locally the Redskins added people every week making the club larger than ever.

Various degrees of awards were given for accumulated points at meet participation. For 25 points the degree of merit was given, 75 points, degree of honor, 150 points, degree of excellence, and 250 points, degree of distinction. The most coveted award, the double ruby was given for 500 points and was obtained by very few students.

NFL/ Membership increases to highest ever; awards given for special participants

Senior NFL members Bob Grant, Sandi Rogers, and Jim Wehrenberg look over an index card from the extemp files. The files were used to quickly find magazine articles.

Senior Sandi Rogers displays the speech team shirts. The team bought the shirts to boost and show enthusiasm.

Concert, Varsity Bands/ Wind ensemble performs out concerts; band plays difficult arrangements

There were two major bands at North, the Concert Band and the Varsity Band. The Concert Band consisted of over 100 upperclassmen, who performed at school concerts. In the fall, all the members participated in the Marching Band.

Varsity Band contained approximately 50 sophomores. They also performed concerts and marched in the fall.

The honor wind ensemble, in its second year, proved very successful. Students auditioned playing a prepared piece as well as scales and sight reading. Mr. Ashton planned several out of school concerts for this group because the concert band was too large to transport.

Marching in the cold is tuba player Lee Seeger. Marching band spent many hours practicing despite poor weather conditions. The band performed at all home football games.

Concert Band members are (Front row) Jane Snyder, Lea Powers, Sharon Hoagland, Sue Smith, Beth Meyer, Ken Beebe, Barb Nelson, Jill Peters. Orchestra/

The most accomplished string players form own group; pep band spurs crowd excitement at games.

String players, as well as some wind and percussion players, joined together to form the orchestra. Directed by Mr. Barry Ashton, they played at school concerts. The girls in the orchestra received new uniforms. A special trip to Richmond, Indiana to perform was the special event of the year.

The more accomplished string players formed a group called the string ensemble. This group played more advanced pieces designed specifically for stringed instruments.

The pep band provided entertainment at all the home basketball games. They helped spur spirit in the crowd.

Vocal Music/

Troubs enjoy downtown Christmas caroling;
Madrigals sing for civic organizations

A third of North Side's student body were members of the music department which gave seven concerts.

The A'Cappella Choir was composed of upperclassmen and was the largest vocal group.

Troubadours, a smaller and much more selective group than A'Cappella, could perform more difficult types of music. Troubs enjoyed the Christmas season by caroling at the Lincoln National Bank. They were accompanied by the brass choir.

The very best vocalists were members of Madrigals which performed for civic groups and at many other non-school functions.

To be in any of these vocal groups, students had to audition in the spring. Students had to sing scales and sight read and then were chosen by the music teachers.

Music Theory was a highly selective course geared to those who intend to continue in music. This year, fourteen advanced students elected this class which dealt with the mechanics of music.

Girls who have the ability to make up pom-pom routines or twirl made up the Arrowettes. Mrs. Betty Wagner, arrowette sponsor, stated that "the girls put many hours of practice into the polished routines done at the football and basketball games." The twirlers received a rating of excellence at NISBOVA. The pom-pom girls were divided into two groups: one received a rating of excellence and the other a superior rating.

Rehearsal Jazz Ensemble was made up of underclassmen in preparation for Wildsiders, the honorary jazz band. All members of Wildsiders must have been in Rehearsal Jazz Ensemble for at least one semester. They were chosen through audition and competed at several jazz festivals.

Training choir was a course elected chiefly by underclassmen to develop the voice and enable them to qualify for more advanced singing groups. Training choir was directed by Mr. Phillip Stubblefield.

Northerner/ Staff reports weekly news, produces school newspaper/

Assistant news editor Keith Hoffman works on last minute details on a news story while Larry Lahr looks on, ready to offer advice.

The duties of the Northerner were handled by thirty-six students, under the supervision of adviser Miss Norma Thiele. The Northerner has been published weekly since the opening of North Side in 1927. Northerner deadlines are met on a week to week basis and all assignments were given by the editors. The purpose of the Northerner is primarily to inform the students of events that occur around the school and form better communication between the students and the administration.

Responsibilities of the editors included assigning stories, copy reading, editing, and making up the pages to be printed. The responsibilities of the staffs and reporters were to gather information, compose the stories, proof-read the stories and then reread the proof when it comes back on the galleys. The paper is financed by advertising and subscriptions. Students are eligible to work on the Northerner if they are enrolled in Journalism I or II.

Advisor Miss Norma Thiele and news editor junior Becky Roady puzzle over the formation of a future Northerner page. Articles must fit together in an eye-pleasing pattern.

Legend/

Smaller staff edits Legend;
They work to meet deadlines

Twelve students met three major deadlines in the production of the yearbook. The first deadline, in October covered such things as fall sports, underclass pictures, and the faculty section. The second deadline in December included the senior section, the directories, and the organizations section. The final deadline in February contained the index, winter sports, and student life section. Each student had a specific staff assignment. Everyone worked on the topics covered in the upcoming deadlines.

The purpose of the yearbook, is to allow students to enjoy and relive their activities and involvements during their three years at North.

The business end of the yearbook is a very important part. Barb Hoppel, business manager, is working on the big job of selling advertisements.

Editor Ann Moore questions assistant editor Thea Baughman about yearbook copy. Before the year began, the editors spent time at a journalism workshop at Indiana University.

1500, Quill and Scroll/ Nine seniors chosen for Quill and Scroll; Journalists collect points for 1500 Club

Quill and Scroll and 1500 club were publications honor groups. Quill and Scroll is an international organization for outstanding journalists. To be included in the club, a student must have the recommendation of the staff advisor on the school newspaper or yearbook, or the recommendation of the principal of the school. These applications are then submitted to a panel of judges at the organizations headquarters and students are selected by the samples of their work.

The 1500 club is exclusively a North Side organization. A student is made a member by accumulating 1500 points through work on the Northerner or Legend. Pins are given for the number of points accumulated. 1500 points receives a bronze pin, 3000 points, a silver pin, 5000 points, gold pins, 7500 points, a jeweled pin.

Key Club/ Girls sell spirit suckers, use money for Thanksgiving meal

Key Club undertook numerous service projects. Their main goal was to serve their school, community, and fellow students. The club is the high school branch of the college and adult clubs, the Circle Key and the Kiwanis. The club met weekly to discuss the needs and problems of their community and to see how they could help.

The main financial backing came from the club itself in the production and sale of the Key. The Key, a directory of the students attending North, was compiled and sold for seventy five cents during the year. The profit was not made on subscriptions, though; it came mostly through advertising purchases by supporting business.

Mr. Larry Bott sponsored the club of thirty members. Officers were Bob Givens, president; Chuck Armstrong, vice president; Dave Johnson, secretary; Tony Terrell, treasurer; and Louis Curdes, lieutenant governor.

Sophomore John Morris carries a box of goods donated to Christmas bureau families. Key Club members helped load the items onto trucks.

Key Club members combined with Z-Club to carol during the Christmas season. The clubs joined forces for several events to enable better participation.

Z-Club/ Members produce student directory participate in Christmas Bureau

Officers of Z-Club included Melinda Zimmerman, Mary Nold, Patti Delobbe, and Linda Bloom. These girls organized events and worked with other Z-Club members to provide service to the community.

Service to the community was Z-Club's goal. About thirty-five girls met every Tuesday morning for the high school division of Zonta International, a women's service organization.

The girls sold spirit suckers during Spirit Week and used the profit to provide a Thanksgiving meal for a family. They also ran a valentine service and made corsages for the sectional basketball tournament. Members helped with West Central tutoring and entertainment at a retirement home. Z-Club, combined with Key Club, the men's service organization, sponsored Christmas caroling at Parkview Hospital.

Officers of the club were President Patty Delobbe, Vice President Melinda Zimmerman, Secretary Linda Bloom, and Treasurer Mary Nold.

Helicon/ Kaleidoscope edited by club members; others explore modern literature

Helicon is an English honors club in which at least a B English average must be maintained for membership.

Helicon's main project is working on their publication named Kaleidoscope. Kaleidoscope is made up of literary material which has been submitted by different students. Patti Kipling is the editor, with Fred Welfle as the assistant editor.

A fall potluck on October 15, initiated new members into the club. Another annual event is a Christmas party at the Allen County Health Center.

The officers are Rhoda Fox, president; Tom Schevtchuk, vice-president; Jana Habegger, secretary; and Patti Kipling, treasurer.

English teachers, Mrs. Neuhaus and Mr. Pugh are the advisors.

Helicon members enjoy refreshments at a meeting. The purpose of the meeting was to plan a program for the Allen County Health Center.

Future Secretaries of America (FSA) is a club of girls taking advanced shorthand. These girls plan to enter into the secretarial field of business.

Their first money making project was selling stationery.

During the first meeting of FSA the Tawasi Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (NSA) sponsored a candlelight initiation. Each member received a pink rose, the flower of the club, and a green candle. The candle was lit at the beginning of a pledge taken by all members. Officers were elected and sworn into the club.

The business club was organized for students who showed an interest in the field of business. The club met once a month, under the direction of Mrs. Wilma Ashe. The purpose was to inform members of how the business world operates.

DECA/

Future leaders learn marketing techniques;
members may compete for nationwide awards

All members of the Distributive Education class were automatically members of the Distributive Education Clubs of America. They were organized on local, state, and national levels to provide incentives and recognition for Distributive Education students.

DECA was designed to develop future leaders in the field of marketing and distribution. The organization was a non-political, school-centered, non-profit, and fully youth-orientated program. Each DECA Chapter was self-supporting, with members paying local, state, and national dues. It was the only national youth organization operating in the schools to help young people into the careers of marketing and distribution.

A member can learn, compete, and be eligible for state and national recognition. Mr. Richard Irving, the Distributive Education teacher, sponsored the club.

Members of the COE classes are also automatic members of Office Education Association, (OEA). An OEA member is eligible to compete in local chapter, state or national contests. These contests are on the abilities of a member in shorthand, typing, and business machines. When a member reaches the national level he goes to Albuquerque, New Mexico in competition against other winners.

The club, sponsored by Mrs. Candace Miller, met on every other Friday during classtime.

OEA's first money-making project was selling candy bars. The money raised was used to pay fares to contests.

The object of the club was to get the members involved in a variety of activities. They did such things as caroling during the Christmas season and taking short pleasure trips. A student worked at least fifteen hours a week at a job gotten for him by the club.

Phy-Chem, Media Center/ Advanced science students sponsor field trips. Pupils spend free time helping in the library

Special guest speakers, field trips, and science projects "above and beyond the everyday classroom science work" was the purpose and activities of the Phy-Chem club. The club, sponsored by Mr. Ronald Dvorak, had sixteen members.

To be eligible for the club, one had to be enrolled in a physics or another advanced science course.

The media center was considered the print and nonprint center of the school. The center was sponsored by Mr. Ted Crum, the audio-visual head, and Mrs. Carolyn Zehner, librarian. Twenty-one students worked in the center.

"The kids learned to find materials and help people," said Mrs. Zehner. The students received credit as well as awards for outstanding service over a one-year period.

Audio-visual members helped to get electrical mechanisms hooked up. They worked with film projectors, films, and recording.

An increased membership was one of the major differences for the chess club, sponsored by Mr. Alvin Harris. Mr. Harris felt that the Spassky-Fisher chess championship has aroused more interest in this ancient game.

The club met and analyzed the lead moves of two players from the club. They tried new techniques and worked on what they should and should not do.

The fall picnic and the annual Festum Romanum were two of the highlights of the JCL club. Mr. Ward Beckley sponsored the organization. To be eligible to join JCL, one had to be at one time a student of Latin. The Festum Romanum, the most celebrated event was covered on national television by NBC. North Side students got together with students from all over the city and dressed in togas and colorful costumes of Roman times.

Faculty, Administration/ Mr. Updike assumes principal's duties; Miss Todd, Mrs. Epps move up; five new teachers join staff

Mrs. Marjorie McClure, treasurer, takes time out from financial matters. Mrs. McClure replaced Mrs. Vera Doty as treasurer.

A major change in administration occurred as Mr. Max G. Updike, former assistant principal, took over the duties of principal from Dr. Bill C. Anthis. Dr. Anthis became assistant superintendent of Fort Wayne Community Schools.

Miss Sandra Todd, former dean of girls, moved to assistant principal, becoming only the second woman in the city to attain this position on the high school level. Mrs. Lizzie Epps became dean of girls.

Mr. Arthur Eldridge, Mr. Don Evans, Mrs. Delores Moore, Mr. Jesse Moden, and Mr. Dean Slavens were other additions to the teaching staff.

Block programs involved 65% of all students and allowed teachers more freedom in planning classes.

Head coach Duane Brown and assistant coach Tom Bullock look over football prospects at a summer practice session.

Cooks, Custodians / Mr. Niemeyer retires, Mr. Haught handles duties; directed by Mrs. Paris, cooks prepare meals

Often neglected members of the staff at North are the cooks and custodians. The cooks and custodians arrive at school every morning while most students are still sleeping and prepare everything so that the school is in running order when the pupils arrive. The cooks were headed by Mrs. Marjorie Paris. She had the responsibilities of preparing daily meals for the students as well as helping to keep the cafeteria clean. The custodians, headed by Mr. Fred Niemeyer, had to keep the school, stadium, and track in working condition throughout the school year. Because of the numerous chores of the custodians, they worked in two shifts, day and night. Mr. Niemeyer retired in January. Second semester duties were handled by Mr. Thomas Haught.

Mr. James Lewinski and Mr. Ted Crum enjoy coffee and a good joke in the audio-visual room during their preparation periods.

Mr. Harold Gruver takes advantage of his free period to relax. He is enjoying a sports page and his favorite Tom T. Hall album.

Looking through his files is Mr. Don Evans. Mr. Evans introduced a new teaching method, simulation, to his government and history classes.

Rosie Regedanz threatens fellow junior Karen Kitchen with a squirming frog in the biology lab.

Displaying one of their talents are a group of junior guys. They are doing a mount to cheer the junior powder puff players on.

Mary Nold, junior, displays a spirit hat. The senior class sold these hats to increase enthusiasm during spirit week.

Sophomores are welcomed to North Side in many fashions. This sophomore has now officially been declared an honorary Redskin.

Time before school is used in many ways. Some students talk with friends, others finish last minute assignments, but many only have time to grab their books and run to class.

Sophomore reserve cheerleaders show a lot of spirit and enthusiasm by yelling a chant led by the varsity. Reserve cheerleaders are required to be cheerblock members.

As the year ends, we reflect upon the events of the previous nine months. Students were faced by a challenging new environment, coupled with unfamiliar faces. Problems arose, resulting in violence and school being closed temporarily. Students recognized that the violence was only a symptom of the real problem and tried, through communication, to seek the true causes. We sought these answers that those who follow us may not be faced by the same problems. In crossing the threshold to a new North Side, we have laid the foundation for the Redskins who follow us.

We extend sincere thanks to Larry Glaze of Paragon Yearbooks and Jack Bundy of S.K. Smith Company for their advice on the technical aspects of the Legend. We are also deeply grateful to Miss Norma Thiele for her patience in allowing us to make our own mistakes.

Ann and Thea
